A Horrible Outbreak.

"Of large sores on my little daughter's head developed into a case of scald head" writes C. D. Isbill, of Morganton, Tenn., but Bucklen's Arnica Salve completely cured her. It's a guaranteed cure for Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Sores, Ulcers and Piles. Only 25c at T. E. Paull's.

Near Sneedville, Tenn., Hence Sutton shot and killed Smith Barnard as the result of a feud.

A. R. De Fluente, editor of the Journal, Doylestown, Ohio, suffered for a number of years from rheumatism in his right shoulder and side. He says: "My right arm at times was entirely useless. I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and was surprised to receive relief almost immediately. The Pain Balm has been a constant companion of mine ever since and it never fails." For sale by M. Cravens.

At Seymour, Ind., Thomas Higdon mistook his mother for a burglar and shot her, perhaps fatally.

We have saved many doctor bills since we began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home. We keep a bottle open all the time and whenever any of my family or myself begin to catch cold we begin to use the cough Remedy, and as a result we never have to send away for a doctor and incur a large doctor bill, for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never fails to cure. It is certainly a medicine of great merit and worth.—D. S. MEARLE, General Merchant and Farmer, Mattie, Bedford county, Pa. For sale by M. Cravens.

Wm. Mooney, of Belaire, Ohio, shot his wife because she scolded him for correcting one of their children.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern which is not afraid to be generous. The proprietor of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles and have the satisfaction of knowing it has cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, La Grippe and all Throat, Chest and Lung diseases are surely cured by it. Call on T. E. Paull, druggist, and get a free trial bottle. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

The famous Theater Francaise, at Paris, was destroyed by fire and Mlle. Henriot, an actress, lost her life in the flames.

Spreads Like Wildfire.

When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling bitters I have handled for 20 years. You know why? Most diseases begin in disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood and nerves. Electric Bitters tones up the stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the entire system. Puts new life and vigor into any weak, sickly, rundown man or woman. Price 50 cents. Sold by T. E. Paull, druggist.

Forty-nine lives were lost by the explosion in the Red Ash mine, in West Virginia. Only twenty-one bodies were recovered.

We Want Wood.

If you promised to bring us a load of wood now is the time. Bring it at once. Our stoves take 15 inch wood. We have due us 8 or 10 loads with the full understanding that we accept it as a cash payment for the News. This notice is simply to remind those who promised wood that we need it and is not intended for any one except those who have such an understanding. Do not wait for some other person to wood us, but bring it, a big load at once.

COL. BADEN-POWELL.

Is the Sherlock Holmes of the British Army.

Col. Baden-Powell is the Sherlock Holmes of the British army, for no one has employed the methods of the great detective of fiction to more purpose. When he was in India, Baden-Powell used to make deductions from every-day incidents a regular practice, in order that he might complete his training as a successful cavalry scout. Here is an example of the Sherlock Holmes' method which Col. Baden-Powell employs in scouting. Riding one day across an open grass plain in Matabeleland, he suddenly noticed that the grass had been recently trodden down. Following up the track, he soon found that it was the "spoor" of several women and boys, going in the direction of the enemy. A tall tale leaf, which he saw lying a few yards off the track—whereas there were no trees for miles—convinced him that the party had come from a village some 15 miles distant, where trees with leaves of this kind grew. The leaf was damp and smelt of the native bear. He guessed, therefore, that women and boys, according to their custom, had been carrying pots of native beer on their heads, and that the mouths of the pots had been stopped with bunches of leaves.

That it was lying ten yards off the track showed to the military Sherlock Holmes that a wind had been blowing at the time it fell. It was then nearly seven in the morning, and there was no wind, but there had been a breeze about two hours before. Baden-Powell read from these very trifling signs that during the night a party of women had brought beer from the village, 15 miles distant, and had taken it to the enemy on the hills, arriving there about six o'clock. He further guessed that the men would probably start to drink the beer at once, and that by the time he could reach them they would be getting sleepy from it, and therefore give him a favorable chance of reconnoitering their position. He accordingly followed the women's tracks, found the enemy as he supposed, made his observations, and got away with valuable information without any difficulty.—M. A. P.

INDIGO AND ITS RIVAL

Wood Used for Dyeing and Long Protected from Competition.

In Feilden's Magazine it is pointed out by a writer on indigo that most of the blue cloth and ribbons found on Egyptian mummies 5,000 years ago had been dyed with indigo, and that the celebrated blue garments of Sion, the sister town of Tyre, where the ancient purple mentioned in the Bible came from, were also found to be dyed with indigo. However, it is only since the sixteenth century, or from the time of the discovery of the way to India via the Cape of Good Hope, that it has become gradually known in Europe. There was used in Europe a blue coloring matter derived from the wood or pastel plant (Isatis tinctoria), and the wood cultivators, with their great vested interests, strenuously resisted the introduction of indigo, and actually induced the English, French and German governments to promulgate enactments against its use. From 1561 the struggle of the home grown woad against its foreign rival commenced, and continued for many years with the greatest bitterness. It is strange in these days of healthy competition to read that Henry IV. of France issued an edict condemning to death anyone who used that pernicious drug called the "devil's food." Indeed, it is only since the year 1737 that the French dyers have had the right to use indigo without restriction. In England the use of indigo is stated to have been forbidden during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, but this is not exactly true, as the edict had reference to the woad plant, which was submitted to fermentation or semi-putrefaction, and caused a nuisance by the vapors it evolved; in Germany, at Nuremberg, they compelled the dyer to take an oath not to use "that corrosive and poisonous color, handed over to mankind by the devil himself," and capital punishment was inflicted on all who violated their oath. In spite, however, of all opposition, the struggle ended in the utter defeat of woad, which is now merely regarded as a curiosity and has ceased to be an article of commerce.—Birmingham Post.

Statues to Women.

The third statue in the United Kingdom erected to the memory of women other than royalties was unveiled recently at Inverness. It was that of Flora Macdonald, a member of a formerly well-known Inverness family, and the cost has been defrayed by the late Capt. Henderson Macdonald. The first portrait statue of a woman set up in England was that of Sister Dora, the distinguished Black country nurse at Walsall, who is represented in her professional attire, and the second was that of Mrs. Siddons, erected some two years ago on Paddington Green.

SUNSTROKE In Battle.

J. L. SPENCER,

of Plattsville, Wis., formerly of Co. G, 3rd Wisconsin Infantry, has suffered many years from the result of a sunstroke. He has found relief and desires to tell his story for the good of other veterans. He says:

"At Petersburg I was sunstruck and carried off the field for dead. Later rheumatism of my heart developed as a result and physicians failed to benefit me. In the spring of '95 I began using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Dr. Miles' Nerve and now my health is better than for 30 years before."

EYES AND NO EYES.

A Talk by a Keen Observer on the Art of Seeing.

That keen observer, John Burroughs, illustrates in an article in the Century, on "The Art of Seeing," the difference between the naturally acute observer and the one who sees only what he sets himself to observe. If we think birds, we shall see birds wherever we go; if we think arrow-heads, as Thoreau did, we shall pick up arrow-heads in every field. Some people have an eye for four-leaved clovers; they see them as they walk hastily over the turf, for they already have them in their eyes. I once took a walk with the late Prof. Eaton, of Yale. He was just then specially interested in the mosses, and he found them, all kinds, everywhere. I can see him yet, every few minutes upon his knees, adjusting his eye-glasses before some rare specimen. The beauty he found in them, and pointed out to me, kindled my enthusiasm also. I once spent a summer day at the mountain home of a well-known literary woman and editor. She lamented the absence of birds about her house. I named a half dozen or more I had heard or seen in her trees within an hour—the indigo bird, the purple finch, the yellow bird, the very thrush, the red-eyed vireo, the song sparrow, etc.

"Do you mean to say you have seen or heard all these birds while sitting here on my porch?" she inquired. "I really have," I said. "I do not see them or hear them," she replied, "and yet I want to very much."

"No," said I; "you only want to see and hear them." You must have the bird in your heart before you can find it in the bush. I was sitting in front of a farmhouse one day in company with the local Nimrod. In a maple tree in front of us I saw the great crested flycatcher. I called the hunter's attention to it, and asked him if he had ever seen that bird before. No, he had not; it was a new bird to him. But he had probably seen it scores of times—seen it without regarding it. It was not the game he was in quest of, and his eye heeded it not.

Human and artificial sounds and objects thrust themselves upon us; they are within our sphere, so to speak; but the life of nature we must meet half way; it is shy, withdrawn, and blends itself with a vast neutral background. We must be initiated; it is an order the secrets of which are well guarded.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

Advance Made in Switzerland in the Last Century.

Switzerland was the home of the philanthropist and educator Fellenburg. His school, established at Hopyl in 1806, was a philanthropy in aid of the peasantry, concerning whom he said that possessing nothing but bodies and minds, the cultivation of these was the only antidote for their poverty. At least 3,000 pupils received their education in agriculture here. The Federal Polytechnic school at Zurich is the nation's pride. Out of six courses of superior training which it provides for its 1,000 students, forestry and agriculture count as two. Five universities and numerous special schools furnish aid to agricultural education.—W. E. De Riemer, in Popular Science Monthly.

A Mormon elder at a meeting in Jacksonville, Fla., said Southern women had no virtue. He was promptly knocked down by a man who was sitting near the platform, and the meeting broke up in disorder.

It is very hard to stand idly by and see our dear ones suffer while awaiting the arrival of the doctor. An Albany, (N. Y.) dairyman called at a drug store there for a doctor to come and see his child, then very sick with croup. Not finding the doctor in, he left word for him to come at once on his return. He also bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which he hoped would give some relief until the doctor should arrive. In a few hours he returned, saying the doctor need not come, as the child was much better. The druggist, Mr. Otto Scholz, says the family has since recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to their neighbors and friends until he has a constant demand for it from that part of the country. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Climbing Up & Down Stairs

CARRYING heavy burdens, washing, ironing, scrubbing and other laborious duties are productive of an enormous amount of suffering among women who are already weak and prostrated by the ravages of female diseases. The performance of these heavy labors is obligatory to many women, but the suffering is not. This feature of the household burdens may soon be removed if women will only take the trouble to learn how. A few bottles of
